CONVICTS' STATUS AS WITNESSES IN CIVIL CASES UP TO COURT FOR RULING

Decision Asked an Unusual Legal Question Raised in Jefferson County

STATE WILL RESIST THE PETITION, DAVIS SAYS

Andrew Patterson Obtains Home in Capital as New Law Requires

(Montgomery Bureau Albany-Decatur Daily)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 5.—Can the state convict department be forced to remove a convict from the penitentiary and produce him in court as a witness in a civil case? This question is a new one in court annals of Alabama and must be answered first by the circuit court of Jefferson county and finally by the supreme court.

Proceedings have been filed in the Jefferson circuit court seeking a writ of mandamus which would require William F. Feagin, state-warden-general, to produce Strafford Reese, a state convict, in the Jefferson court as a witness in a civil suit against the Montevallo Mining Company, owner of the convict mine at Alrich. It is alleged that Reese is a material witness and saw the accident which brought about the suit for damages.

Edward G. Davis, attorney-general, left tonight for Birmingham and will appear in opposition to the petition. The state contends that there is no authority in law for the production of convicts as witnesses and that the testimony of convicts is incompetent anyway. The law provides for the removal of convicts as witnesses in criminal cases, but is silent regarding their testimony in other proceedings.

The state will resist the petition on the ground that serious results might follow. It is pointed out that if the state were required to transfer a convict to any county as a witness in a civil case, the friends of convicts might file suits in their home counties with the knowledge that their imprisoned friend would be brought back home and kept during the trial of the cases.

Because of the large number of cases and the many witnesses and spectators, the March session of the Alabama public service commission will be held in the supreme court room. This announcement was made by the commission today. The docket contains a large number of miscellaneous petitions. The offices of the commission are being renovated and remodeled and there is not room to accommodate those who are expected here for the meeting.

A. G. Patterson, of Albany, president of the Alabama public service commission since January 17, became resident of Montgomery Friday, moving here with his family in compliance with the public utility act of 1920 which requires all members of the commission to live in Montgomery during their terms.

Mr. Patterson has taken a home in Winthrop Court. Mrs. Patterson and children came Thursday evening through the country from their home and Friday was spent in placing household furniture. His home is near the home of B. H. Cooper, associate commissioner, who has been a resident of Montgomery several years, having moved here from Birmingham he began his second term as a member of the commission.

Judge W. L. Longshore, of the Eighteenth circuit, has condemned and forfeited to the state a fifty-five acre farm and one large automobile under Alabama's bone dry prohibition law, according to a report made today by L. L. Phillips, member of the state constabulary. This is the first time any acreage of any consequence has been condemned.

It is alleged that the owner of the farm was operating a still upon the property. His still was destroyed, he was arrested and his property was seized.

One hundred and forty-one sacks of cotton seed meal shipped to Birmingham from Tennessee, and forty-seven sacks of commercial feeding stuff manufactured in Birmingham were seized there today.

LEGION WILL OBSERVE NEXT WEEK AS MEMBERSHIP WEEK

All Ex-Service Men Invited to Become Affiliated With Organization

In cooperation with thousands of other branches of the organization throughout the United States, announcement was made today that the Morgan County post of the American Legion will observe next week as "clean-up" week and a concentrated drive will be conducted to obtain the membership of every ex-service man not now affiliated with the outfit. The plan adopted by the local post gives a personal touch to the campaign. Instead of the appointment of membership committees to go after the new members, the post has decided to mail to every present member of the organization two application blanks for membership. The Legionnaire receiving the two blanks will be asked to see two friends and extend to them an invitation to become affiliated with the organization.

NO COMPROMISE ACTION TAKEN BY A. B. A. RECEIVER

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., March 5.—A strike, which has been ordered of all brotherhood and union members of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad, began at noon today. At the same time the strike was ordered, railroad brotherhood leaders sent to B. L. Bugg, receiver for the road, a final statement, saying the strike order would be recalled immediately upon the recall of the order cutting wages on the road amounting to 20 to 25 per cent.

Col. Bugg had not replied at 12:30 o'clock. About 1,500 are affected.

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, March 5.—Receiver B. L. Bugg, of the Atlantic, Birmingham and Atlantic railway, has taken no action to compromise with representatives of his employees, so far as known today. The decision reached by the labor leaders last evening to withdraw from the service in the next 24 hours unless something more satisfactory than has yet been presented could be offered, will probably result in such withdrawal of the men.

The time set has not been made public but it has been reported from Fitzgerald, Ga., where the main shops are located that 11 a. m. today is the appointed time.

Receiver Bugg, in a statement declares the threatened walk-out is "a threatened sacrifice of the A. B. and A. employees upon the altar of the national labor organizations for the effect it will have on the larger roads."

CHARMING OPERA IS PRESENTED TONIGHT

Mr. Joseph Sheehan, who has appeared here on previous occasions, and whose voice is compared to Caruso, will be heard tonight at the Masonic theater in Faust.

Supporting him are Bianca Randall, soprano, the great pupil of Jean De Reszke, who is frequently compared to Melba; Mr. Pierre Remington, bass, whose operatic career has been one of artistic achievement; Miss Ocy Shoff mezzo, who is delightful to hear and charming to see and others in "Faust."

From press notices and other sources, this performance promises great pleasure to those attending.

demnation proceedings. The seizure was made by inspectors of the division of food, feed and drugs of the state department of agriculture because they were not properly branded under the commercial feeding stuff law.

Louisiana and Mississippi have followed the decision of the Alabama public service commission and granted the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and allied systems an increase of twenty per cent in telephone rental rates, according to reports received by the public service commission today. The new rates in Louisiana were effective March 1. In Louisiana the telephone company was not permitted to make any increase in rates on farmers' lines because of the bad financial condition which the farmers have faced during the year.

In each case the telephone companies were required to expedite the work of repairing and extending the lines and telephone exchanges in order that all persons who desire service may receive it at the earliest possible moment. This requirement was also made by the Alabama commission.

THOUSANDS ATTEND FORMAL OPENING OF DECATUR DRUG CO.

Between five and six thousand admiring friends yesterday called at the Decatur Drug Company, corner Bank and Vine streets, during the firm's reception, formally opening its new home. From two o'clock until long after eight o'clock a steady stream of visitors poured into the building and were warmly welcomed by the members of the popular firm.

Souvenirs were given all visitors and service at the fountain was free to all who entered. An eight-piece orchestra rendered a musical program throughout the afternoon and evening.

Beautiful flowers were given the ladies and during the day the firm distributed 2,500 carnations, 1,000 ice cream, 200 gallons of Richardson Fruit Juice company's punch, 2,000 miniature packages of Whitman's candy, Lord Baltimore and Gato cigars, Spurlock and Neal's proprietaries and samples of San Tox toilet preparations.

The handsome new home of the drug company was attractively decorated for the occasion with cut flowers. Visitors were present from Athens, Cullman, Florence, Lewisburg, Hartselle, Elkmont, Huntsville, Madison and many other North Alabama points.

Aiding the members of the firm in entertaining the thousands of visitors were W. N. Sidebottom Sr. and J. O. Moser, of Nashville, of the Sidebottom company and V. A. Coleman, of Rochester, N. Y., representing the Richardson Fruit Juice company.

HOMAGE PAID TO FORMER SPEAKER

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—The homage that might have been paid to a President of the United States—which he almost was—was paid to Champ Clark today.

The body of the great Missourian lay in state in the House where for more than a quarter of a century he served with distinction and honor. About the simple casket, holding the remains, there came during the day Republicans and Democrats alike and bowed their heads in respect.

At the funeral services only a small part of the throng could get inside the building and it was overflowed into the park and grounds. Eulogies of Champ Clark were spoken by Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri and Representative James R. Mann, of Illinois.

Long Session Held by Ministry to Discuss the Allied Ultimatum

(International News Service)

Following a long session of the ministry on Friday, when opinions were heard from experts, it was reported today the opinion was expressed "it would be more preferable for the French to carry out their threats than for the Germans to sign."

The cabinet has made it plain it will back Dr. Simons in his reply to Premier Lloyd George.

NEW PASTOR FOR 1ST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH ARRIVES

Rev. Wallace, new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Decatur, has arrived here to make his home and will fill his pulpit Sunday morning.

Rev. Wallace formerly lived in Opelika and the following letter was received here today by a Baptist pastor from a Baptist pastor of Opelika:

Dr. C. C. Davidson,
Decatur, Ala.
My dear Brother Davidson:

I am writing to tell you that Dr. Wallace, who has been pastor of the Presbyterian Church in this city for a short time, is moving to your city to become pastor of the First Presbyterian Church. He is a man of beautiful culture, a genuine christian gentleman, a good preacher, a man of fine qualities that make a man valuable to any community. We regret very much to see him leave this city, but our loss is your gain. He is worthy of the love and confidence of all the people to your city.

The work goes well with our church here, we have had 119 additions during the past five months and are having additions almost every service.

Always yours fraternally,

MEXICAN BEETLE GIVEN ATTENTION

By FRED H. GORMLEY

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 5.—The arrival of the Mexican bean beetle and grass worm in Alabama during last year furnished some thrills and much work for the bureau of entomology of the Alabama experiment station at Auburn, according to the annual report of Dr. J. F. Dugger, director of the station, submitted to Governor Kilby. This report, in addition to the general statement of Dr. Dugger, contains sub-reports from the heads of the various bureaus, including the bureau of entomology, the bureau of cooperative experiments in agriculture, the bureau of plant breeding, the animal husbandman, the horticulturist, drainage engineer and agricultural engineer.

Because of the seriousness of the spread of the bean beetle, the pest will receive the greatest attention of the bureau of entomology during the year now being entered. The production of table beans in Alabama will be greatly curtailed if not lost entirely if any means is not found to destroy the pest.

PETROGRAD IS SCENE OF VIOLENT FIGHTING

Dispatches Aver Reds Are Unable to Launch Spring Offensive

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 5.—The anti-Bolshevik revolution in Russia is reported to be gaining in strength, according to advices received by the Daily Express.

Boris Litvinoff, head of the Russian delegation at Reval, the chief doorway through which Russia communicates with the outside world, has asked for protection by the Estonian government and the red flag has been removed from the Russian legation.

The following radiogram was received: "Power has passed into the hands of a temporary revolutionary committee headed by General Kozlovsky, a man both the fleet and garrison at this port are loyal. A call is being issued to all the whites in Russia to join the movement."

Rebel workmen at Petrograd, assisted by soldiers and sailors and battalions, have captured all the right bank of the Nevsy as well as all the important railway stations. Warships have joined the revolt of Petrograd.

General Semenov, with 25,000 anti-Bolshevik cosacks, is reported advancing through Siberia. The Moscow wireless, in a message today, said the Georgian peasants who had revolted against the Mensheviks had requested French warships to bombard the district held by the whites.

Private dispatches received during the afternoon said that the counter-revolutionary movement was gaining in Russia. There are reports Russia will not be able to make her reported offensive against Poland and Roumania this spring.

OIL COMPANY TO DRILL SUNDAY AFT.

North Alabama residents will get another opportunity to see the oil drill in action on the English farm Sunday afternoon, it was announced today. A picture of the scene will be taken at 3 o'clock.

After several days delay because of the hole caving the oil company, now drilling on the English farm, has the 15 1/2 inch casing set and has resumed drilling on a regular schedule. No further trouble is expected.

The formation now being cut through is very hard and is said to be a good indication. Several men from the oil districts of Texas are here are looking over the property this afternoon. Several other Texas operators are expected here in a few days, it was stated. It is rumored that wells will be sunk near Hartselle in Morgan and Moulton in Lawrence counties.

REPORT DECLARES TWIN CITIES MAY LAND BALL BERTH

A report published this morning and sent from Sheffield, declaring the new Cotton States baseball league probably will include the Twin Cities, caused much surprise here. So far as could be ascertained the plan had not been given serious consideration here.

Several weeks ago an effort was made to organize a league composed of North Alabama and middle Tennessee cities, in which Albany and Decatur expected to have a berth, but the promoters were unable to interest the required six cities.

The Sheffield dispatch stated that city has already wired its acceptance of a berth in the Cotton States circuit, which includes several Mississippi cities and Pensacola, Fla.

It was pointed out here that the proposed circuit would have transportation charges of such magnitude that it was very probable that Twin Cities would be unable to support the club on a paying basis.

ART EXHIBIT FOR SCHOOL BENEFIT

An exhibition of pictures will be given under the auspices of the Albany schools at the Y. M. C. A. beginning Monday and lasting through Saturday next. The exhibition is given for the purpose of raising funds for the purchase of pictures for the walls of the public school rooms. This exhibition is one of more than ordinary interest, it is said. It consists of carbon photographs and engravings and the collection is very large, containing only the best reproductions of the masterpieces of art in different countries and periods.

The exhibition will be open afternoon and evenings from 3 to 6 and from 7:30 to 9:20 o'clock. In the evenings Miss Alice Hutton and her students will render musical programs and a pantomime, illustrating the pictures.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 5.—With the business of government again in Republican hands, a new President and new heads of the ten great governmental departments settled down today to get the feel of the reins.

The only thing in the nature of a suggestion from President Harding to his aides has been that they familiarize themselves as quickly as possible with the machinery of their department in order that there may be a quick recovery from the temporary confusion occasioned by the shift of administration.

Every member of the new cabinet today was at his desk. President Harding was at his desk shortly after nine o'clock this morning.

At the White House itself—the great iron gate standing invitingly open for the first time in four years—the President planned to see a number of people and later in the day attend to the memorial service for the late Champ Clark.

War Debts Up

Europe's $10,000,000,000 debt to the United States is at the top of the calendar today as one of the most urgent problems pressing for solution under the new administration. This vital question, together with others, today confronted the new Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, when he took over the affairs of office.

Secretary Mellon's first day was devoted partly to a study of the debt matter.

Secretary Mellon, in a series of conferences with David F. Houston, the retiring secretary and with other officials, was made conversant with the status of the foreign loans and when went at some length into the various phases of negotiations previously begun by foreign governments relative to the fundings of outstanding obligations.

The plan of several foreign governments to enter at once into negotiations looking into conversation into long term obligations of the demand notes now held by this government, were before the new Secretary for consideration.

WOODROW WILSON RETIRES TO PRIVATE LIFE

Dropping the official mantle which had adorned his masterful shoulders during eight eventful years, President Wilson today became plain Woodrow Wilson, American citizen. Great as is the loss of official America, correspondingly great is the gain of American citizenship in this addition to its ranks.

Beset by enemies and betrayed by friends, Woodrow Wilson has battled courageously through the years for what he has believed to be right, and what the nation ultimately will conceive to be right, and today he turned over his office to his successor, but it was far from the Woodrow Wilson who went to Washington on March 4, eight years ago to become the chief executive of the world's greatest government.

Broken in body, this second Man of the World in his heart proved far too great a task for any man and it made of President Wilson a physical wreck. He gave his all and what does he receive in return? There are those who would take away from him even the gratitude of a nation well served, but they never can take from him his own knowledge of a task well done.

For the sake of their own selfish ends there are those who have assailed him; there are those who have mistreated him; there are those who have brought to their aid all of the nefarious schemes soiled minds concoct in an effort to discredit him before the American people, but even they have been unable to purge the record of the ideal Woodrow Wilson has left as his legacy to the nation. Says Omar:

The moving finger writes,
And having writ, moves on,
Nor all your piety nor wit,
Can call it back to cancel half a line!
Nor all your tears erase a word of it.

How true it is of this broken man who leaves his office today. The darkness of misrepresentation, for a time, may dim our vision of his greatness but dawn of a new and brighter day will reveal this characteristic in all of its splendor and posterity will find America acclaiming anew Woodrow Wilson—her greatest President.

SPRING DAYS ARE DAYS OF OPPORTUNITY

Every day presents a thousand and one opportunities, for the busy and the thrifty, but especially in the Spring season a time of opportunity. Every business, every industry and every individual in the county now has the chance to step forward and up along the course of constructive progress.

To begin with the farming interests. It is such an old saying as to be trite to say that no class is so independent as that of the farmers. No class can so quickly retrieve a loss. The farmers are closest in touch with Nature and can read her secret plans more easily, and appropriate her boundless wealth most readily. It is not often wise for any one person or any set of men to give advice to others. Especially should the farmers of the county know their business and what is to their best interests.

They have been fairly well instructed on the importance of diversification, and rotation of crops. The Cotton Association has preached early and late against the danger of planting too much cotton. If the farmers decide not to decrease their cotton acreage, in the face of all the facts that have been brought to their attention, they and all the rest of us may be expected to suffer the consequences. The proponents of good roads—the means by which the farmers and the consuming public are to be brought into closer touch, have much to encourage them, despite the recent opinion of the state supreme court against the new good roads bond issue law. Sentiment is growing stronger every day for a complete system of hard roads, that will connect every part of the county, with every other part. We should look upon Morgan county as if it were one immense corporate body, and every part of the whole, every individual and every corporation, should work in complete accord for the benefit of all the people as a whole.

No time is better for such cooperative effort than in the Spring season. As planting time comes on, there must of necessity be close business relations established between the farmers, the banks and the merchants. As in the past such relations have been pleasant and profitable to all concerned, so this year they may be expected to be the same, and even more so, than ever before.

As matters now stand, unless there is a strong sense of responsibility felt by all classes to do and be their best, we cannot reasonably expect the large prosperity, during the year or at the close of the year, which is our due. The worker in every trade should do his best, at all times, to the end that material shall be saved, and the greatest efficiency possible, be realized. The merchants, the bankers, and all who serve the whole county community in other ways, should make special efforts to make their efforts felt for the greatest good to the greatest number.

And especially all classes should bend every energy in an effort to see what can be done to help and encourage the farmers of the county, since their labor and their product are at present not being appreciated in as large a measure as selves anew, for the opportunities and responsibilities of the present year.

THE TRUTH ABOUT RUSSIA

Little by little we are getting the truth about Russia. Emma Goldman was returned to Russia by United States authorities and found that nation's government was not at all what she had previously believed it was. Emma was currently reported to have a burning desire to set her feet on American soil again.

Lately initial intimations that certain Socialistic notions were not entirely satisfied with conditions existing in that country have been corroborated by the declaration of M. Schwartz, among others. Schwartz made his home in San Francisco, but went to Russia to attend a congress of the Third International. His wife went with him, but she fell a victim of Russian discipline and died following a hunger strike in a Russian prison. Speaking of the slight regard for human life existing in the Soviet prisons and describing how the guards visit the cells after midnight for their human sacrifices to a Godless system of government, Schwartz says:

"A Bolshevik soldier walks into the crowded cell and in the instant silence calls out the names of the men, or women, who must die. In the jail where I was, they marched the prisoners down a stairway and into a courtyard. We could hear the volleys of the firing squads. Many men were called out for execution from my cell during those four months. Few of them knew why they had been condemned, but generally it was understood they were counter-revolutionists. They were shot without trial."

The scathing attack of Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, on the Soviet because its opposition to the labor union movement is only accumulative evidence against the Reds, who stand indicted today before the whole world. The Soviet is a mere sham to cover the most diabolical autocracy in the history of the world.

AGED COUPLE MAKE MONEY

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cantrell, an aged couple who live in the Twelfth district of Rutherford county and who are known for their energy and thrift, had no trouble last year making money. These two people do all their work without help from any source, and what is raised on their little place is carried to market in a buggy. Mr. Cantrell is almost 72 years old and Mrs. Cantrell is less than a year younger than her husband.

They sold last year on the market the following products:

Milk	$169.10	Cream	$275.17	Eggs	$120.99
Hens	$4.85	Chickens	$49.12	Irish potatoes	$33.05
English peas	$5.35	Mustard	$6.05	Cabbage	$10.40
Snap beans	$35.70	Butter beans	$32.90	Green peas	$12.75
Turnips	$1.40	Sweet potatoes	$3.60	Tomatoes	$20.00
Turnip greens	$27.15	Grapes	$2.55	Breserves	$13.10
Apples	$77.25	Wheat potato plants	$19.37	Total	$839.85

The milk and cream came from the cows, and the vegetables were grown on a 40-yard garden.

Mrs. Cantrell made during the year $41.50 sewing for other people, in addition to doing all her household work, including washing, ironing and scrubbing.

This is a record unequalled in the county, so far as we are advised, and it shows what people can do by practicing thrift and economy.—Home Journal, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

I hear that our good friends in Albany propose to give in honor of the Alabama Press Association a dance on the occasion of the annual meeting on May 5th and 6th.

This will be good news to our festive friends Julian, Williams, Fennell, Doster and Dugger, but our more sober sided members like Hon. Charlie Greer, and the Secretary will have to be content with rearing their eyes on the grace and beauty of Albany and lending their voices to the vocal numbers on the program if there be any, if not Greer, the nightingale of the Alabama Press Association, may be counted on to start something in the vocal line any how.—James Hurd in Alapressa.

He declared the present unsettled business conditions were due largely to the state of mind of the buying public and not because their was any real reason for depression. He urged the renewal of buying by business men and by the consumer.

Loveman Address
Mr. Loveman, president of the Alabama Retail Merchants Association and a member of the firm of Loveman, Joseph and Loeb, delivered one of the most interesting addresses heard here in many years.

He endorsed the campaign of the club and took occasion to commend the organization for its great work to restore business to normal levels.

He declared that there is no real foundation for any depression and cited the increase of per capita wealth in the United States during the past five years as an indication of the fundamental prosperity of the nation.

Digressing from his subject long enough to discuss for a moment the work of the Retail Merchants Association, Mr. Loveman declared the time has arrived when merchants are becoming convinced that, instead of being independent of each other, they are really inter-dependent upon each other.

Trade At Home

He gave his endorsement of the trade at home policy and declared that no community would be a live community unless the merchants in that section are prosperous. "How do you expect your merchant to be prosperous if the citizenship does not give to the merchants their unequalled support."

Dwelling upon the same thought Mr. Loveman left the following word of advice for local merchants: "I am going to give you a piece of advice which may cost us money, but here it is. Buy less at a time, but buy more often. If you believe that the women of your community do not keep up with changing styles, you are mistaken. The average woman living in the smaller cities or in the country now know more about styles than did our mothers who resided in the large cities. By buying less and buying more frequently, you prevent yourself from becoming overstocked and you keep abreast of all changes in fashion." He urged the Golden Rule in the conduct of all business.

Wilson Praised

Mr. Doveman paid a glowing tribute to Woodrow Wilson and his hearers gave prolonged applause to the declaration that history would recognize Mr. Wilson as the greatest idealist in the history of the American Republic.

Had the League of Nations, or a similar association of nations been accepted, business conditions now would be on a normal basis, Mr. Loveman declared.

In his own address and in the other speeches of the evening, there was an undercurrent of optimism.

"The law and supply and demand finally will right conditions in this country, but let's speed up the hour by buying what we need now, whether we be professional men, business men, laboring men or capitalists." This was the thought left with the big audience by all the speakers.

Stunt Proves Popular

A "stunt", arranged under the supervision of the stunt committee, in which Miss Mary Daniel charmingly displayed the buying opportunities here and J. W. Clopton "lectured" on the uselessness of buying out of town, proved very popular with the audience, as did two musical numbers rendered by Miss Daniels.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. Sturdivant.

Sanders Cortner Improved Today

A telegram received here yesterday stated that Sanders Cortner, who was injured severely in an automobile collision in Virginia, where he is at a military school, was resting well and had no temperature. His physicians will probably be unable to determine for several days whether amputation of his foot will be necessary, but they have hopes it may be saved.

burial today. Mrs. McNeill died at the home of her sister, Mrs. M. DeJarnette, 822 South Hull street, after an illness of several years. She would have been eighty years old on October 22 and had lived in Montgomery thirty years of the coming, coming here from Birmingham.

Funeral services were conducted at the DeJarnette home shortly before the body was carried to Clayton for interment.

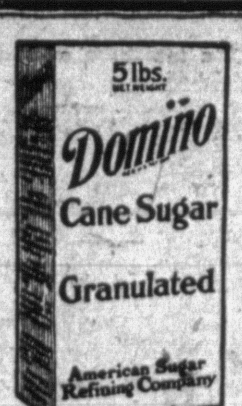

Male teachers in the one-teacher public schools of Alabama received an annual salary of $408 while female teachers in the same class of schools were paid $391 during the calendar year of 1920, according to averages made by T. E. Bonnor, statistician of the state department of education. This was based on an average school term of 113 days.

Male teachers in the six-teacher schools of the state received an average annual salary $1,112 while female teachers in this class of schools received an average annual salary of $550 during 1920. This was based on the average school term of 161 days.

Reports made to the state auditor by corporations which must bear the expense of the operation of the public service commission in the future have revealed interesting facts about earnings of public service corporations in Alabama during the past year.

The Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company reported that its gross earnings in this state during the year were $2,100,000, while the Western Union Telegraph Company gave its total gross earnings as $172,954.11. The Postal Telegraph Company reported gross earnings at $23,129.09, while the Pullman Company announced that its gross earnings in Alabama during the year were $102,436.59. These earnings were on intrastate business (business between points in Alabama) and do not include earnings on business between points in this state and other states.

In a letter mailed to Birmingham late today, Governor Kilby told General Robert E. Steiner, commanding officer of the Alabama Guard during the coal strike, that the people of this state should appreciate the unselfish loyalty to the state and its institutions shown by himself, all other officers and all enlisted men in their service during the long time they were stationed in the strike zone.

"Society Snobs," the latest Selznick Picture which comes to the Princess theatre Saturday is said to be one of the frankest exposures of society as represented by the nouveau riche, ever screened.

The Foresters have so recently risen from obscurity to riches that Mother Forester wishes to hitch their social reins to a foreign nobleman through the marriage of her daughter Vivian, with the popular belief that a title is the solution of all smart set supremacy.

Her carefully laid plans, in spite of every safeguard, come to naught and her social aspirations tumble to earth amidst the amused, unsympathetic jeers of the social world. Then Daughter takes the shaping of destiny into own hands and brings the story to a satisfactory close.

Conway Tearle is the star in this picture, and the direction was under Hobart Henly. Martha Mansfield plays opposite Mr. Tearle, and the supporting cast includes such well known players as Ida Darling, Jack McLean, Huntley Gordon and others.

Fashion Note.

"Who made you?" said the bishop, stopping to pat a little dancer on her head of golden curls. "God," came the prompt answer, to be swiftly followed by the further information, "and he made me naked."—London Morning Post.

NANCY HUGHES, CONTRALTO WITH THE NEW YORK ENGLISH OPERA ASSOCIATION

Masonic Theatre Tonight

The church choir in America has been the source of discovering the first voices in this country. Hardly is there an American of note in this country who has achieved success in the field of opera and concert who has not won his or her initial spurs in some church choir. Look over the list of our much prized opera and concert stars and you will see that their starting point was the church choir. It mattered not how small the church was or where it was located, the musical influence was there after all. Emma Eames, Lillian Nordica, Geraldine Farrar, Florence Easton are but a starter of the list of names of well known singers who began their careers by singing the good old fashioned hymns.

Now among that number of the younger generation comes Nancy Hughes, the young dramatic contralto to which the New York English Opera Association, who will be heard in this city when that organization appears. Miss Hughes has won success in many opera companies, but one still retains her church position in New York city. The fact that she is an opera singer should make her all the more valuable to her church. Her success is an inspiration to ambitious young singers who follow in her footsteps. Such women as Miss Hughes are doing much to bring the church and stage into closer contact and at the same time elevating music from all standpoints.

She was recently a member of the New Orleans Opera Company and her singing in "Aida", "Cavalleria", "Huguenots" and "La Navarraise" proved one of the features of the season. In securing the services of this promising young contralto, the New York English Opera Association feels they have captured a real operatic prize for hers is one of the finest contralto voices heard in a long time. Miss Hughes is an accomplished musician and linguist. She speaks an excellent French and Italian.

clan and linguist. She speaks an excellent French and Italian.

"THE MIKADO"

Just a bit of history anent that famous comic opera, "The Mikado", the sumptuous revival of which Ralph Dunbar is bringing to the Princess Theatre, Wednesday, March 9th will refresh the memories of many who first heard the opera years ago. The libretto was written by William S. Gilbert and the music by Sir Arthur Sullivan. The opera was first produced at the New Savoy Theatre, London, on March 14th, 1885. The occasion was a triumph for the librettist and the musician. Thousands flocked to the theatre during the long run of the production and the many song hits of the attraction were whistled in all parts of London town.

Then "The Mikado" was transplanted to the United States and made a more decided hit than it did in England. It was shown the length and breadth of the land. So great was its initial success that Ralph Dunbar revived it and is rapidly making a fortune from his venture.

"THE MIKADO"

During the past week there has been much searching of the music all over Albany-Decatur and many fingers that have grown more used to holding bridge hands than playing the piano began to play the tinkling sweet melodies, half forgotten of the ever tuneful "Mikado".

Everywhere one goes, the sweet strains are heard, bringing back delightful memories of twenty five years ago, before the so called musical comedy, which is neither musical nor comedy, came to vitiate the public taste. For the "Mikado" is the best of its class; the younger generation, many of whom will hear the sweet lyrics for the first time Wednesday night to the uproarious fun, as fresh today as when Richard Mansfield (who first played the role of "Ko-Ko" in 1885) tickled the American audiences clear out of their seats with the real fun and humor of the role of the gruffing Lord High Executioner to whom everything was possible if fixed right. The said younger generation will then wonder why it was brought up on Follies and half baked and half dressed shows when sure enough comedies like the Mikado existed and they had never show, everybody must know how to sing or it is no show; in musical comedies, if the chorus each has two legs of fair proportions, a voice is not necessary.

It is fair to predict that after the "Mikado" has played here, every one will be whistling it again, the immortal songs like "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring", "Tit Willow", "He's Going To Marry Yum Yum", "I've Got Them On The List".

"It is my aim sublime,
I shall achieve in time
To make the punishment fit the crime".

And the whole list of gay liting, tripping songs that those two wonderful Irishmen, Gilbert and Sullivan, wrote for all time and which Mr. Dunbar has given a most worthy revival of their masterpiece, to the great delight of the American public who have rewarded the impresario with overflowing houses at every place fortunate enough to secure the booking of this amusing and delightful operetta.

Youngster Lacked Humor.

A pig in a crate is novel enough to capture city attention any day in the year. The crate stood on a pavement in front of an express office, and the black-and-white spotted porker, with its quivry nose and cup-handled tail, accepted his prison bars with the philosophy of a race that spends most of its years doing time in a pen.

Naturally, passing people gave the show a word or giggle of comment, and one ragtag boy shrilled out to any one who would listen:

"Ketch on to de c'nary in de cage!"
"That isn't a canary bird. It's a pig."

The entirely correct diagnosis was voiced by a little chap whose neatness showed for a mother's tenderest care. He couldn't take a joke, but it was equally obvious that never, never would he take, say, a pocketbook that didn't belong to him.

But the look of pitying scorn on the ragtag's face and his whoop of derision brought a round of guffaws that would have done credit to a Chaplin film.—Washington Star.

HOT, DIZZY FEELING

Atlanta Lady's Uncomfortable and Annoying Condition Relieved, She Says, by Cardui.

Atlanta, Ga.—Miss Alice Frances Young, of 28 East Alexander Street, this city, says: "After entering womanhood, I suffered so much with womanly weakness. My back ached. I would have, at certain times, a hot feeling that seemed to go to my head. Even my shoulders would hurt, and it made me very dizzy and uncomfortable. When the blood would flow to my head, I suppose that was what it was—I would faint and feel so weak. "I couldn't do my work. I had a good position, and this was surely annoying as well as embarrassing. I would usually have to go home and go to bed. I certainly suffered greatly. "I heard of Cardui, and my mother bought it for me. It was the first and only medicine that ever did me any good for this trouble."

Dizziness, headache, sideache, backache, tired-out feeling and other disagreeable symptoms are often signs of womanly troubles. Thousands of women who formerly suffered from these and similar ailments have found Cardui a very valuable remedy.

Cardui is composed only of pure, vegetable ingredients which have long been recognized as of medicinal value in the treatment of many diseases and disorders peculiar to women.

Two American Subs on Rocks

(International News Service)
NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 4.—Two American submarines were on the rocks off Southern New England's coast today. Word received here said coast guardsmen had taken off ten men of the crew of 33 from the O-1, ashore off Fishers' Island. The O-8 was fast on a ledge in Buzzard's Bay. An unsuccessful attempt was made by the United States revenue cutter Achusnet to drag the submersible from the ledge.

Another attempt will be made at high tide this afternoon. Both submarines were bound for New London, Conn., from Boston.

MASONS TO MEET

A special convocation of the Decatur chapter, No. 38, R. A. M. will be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. It was announced today by A. B. Harvey, secretary.

Locals Win First Game of Season

The High School diamond on yesterday was the scene of the first baseball contest of the 1921 season when representatives of Austinville High School, disappointed at the cancellation of a cage game with the "all stars" contracted to engage in a baseball contest with the locals, resulting in a 6 to 0 victory for Albany.

It was the school's second day of practice and the visitors first attempt at playing this season. Notable features of the game were the clean fielding and weak hitting. Only a small number of the local first team was in action, since the game was not begun until 4:30 p. m.

Ezell, on the mound for Albany, pitched his usually good brand of ball and only, in the fourth was Austinville within scoring distance. In this frame, with two men on bases and nobody out, Ezell struck out two men, while number three popped a weak fly.

The team lined up as follows:

Official Business Takes Precedence Over Celebration

cession lasted fourteen days, and relays of coaches and saddle horse were necessary for his long drive. President Harding was whisked to the Capitol in a very few minutes in the most modern of motor vehicles.

The shadows of other inaugurations however over Washington today run the gamut of variety, from the fourteen-day trip of George Washington, and the heavily guarded inauguration of Abraham Lincoln to the quiet and day unostentatious proceedings of today.

Spring had barely banished the ice on the Potomac River and the roads were still muddy from the thawing frosts, when George Washington left Mount Vernon on April 16, 1789 in a horse-drawn carriage for New York to take the oath of office. The first President had proceeded no farther than Georgetown—then a thriving port and now a residential section of Washington—when he was met by a cavalcade. For the next fourteen days his drive was a procession of honor with celebrations all along the route as he proceeded. On April 30, 1789 the guns boomed at Fort George in New York Harbor and the first inauguration was under way. The streets of New York were thronged as George Washington, in a stage coach, preceded by military bodies and dignified delegations, drove to the Federal Building and took the oath of office. The guns boomed forth again and the church bells pealed as Washington, attired in dark brown broadcloth and properly bewigged, drove back to the President mansion.

John Adams, second President, set a new fashion when he was inaugurated at Philadelphia. Street parade and display were absolutely lacking when he was inducted into office, and the meagre newspaper accounts of the ceremony indicate that there was little enthusiasm as Adams was inaugurated.

Jefferson Rode Horse

Thomas Jefferson's inauguration is the subject of historical controversy. John Sharp Williams, Senator from Mississippi, and an authority on the life of Jefferson, declares that Jefferson rode to the Capitol, tied his horse to a hitching post, was inaugurated and then went back to his boarding house and took his usual place at the dinner table. Other historians declare that Jefferson was escorted to the Capitol by a troop of militia. All agree, however, that Jefferson set his mind against all display and counted his inauguration as a matter of but little import. At least, it is certain that Jefferson was not escorted by the outgoing President, for history records that John Adams drove away from Washington during the night in order that he might not see or hear the Jefferson inauguration.

Madison's Big Celebration

James Madison did not take his cue from Jefferson, for his inauguration was the signal for a great celebration and a parade in which large numbers of Federal troops participated. Nine companies militia, a considerable force for that time, escorted President Madison and he was ushered into the Senate chamber to take the oath by a Senatorial committee and the members of the Cabinet. In the evening President Madison and ex-President Jefferson both attended an inaugural ball.

James Monroe went to the Capitol to be sworn in surrounded by a cavalcade of prominent citizens, and upon his arrival at the Capitol he was met by the Marine Corps and several other military companies. After his inauguration he gave a huge public reception, which set a mark for social functions of that day, and in the evening he attended an inaugural ball.

John Quincy Adams failed to follow his father's example, for his inauguration led the way for re-inauguration celebrations. The inaugural parade was the greatest display the nation had ever seen up to guest of honor was John Adams, the second President of the United States and the father of John Quincy Adams.

John Had Old Guard

When Andrew Jackson took office it was in the midst of a bitter partisan struggle. John Quincy Adams took a long horseback ride, rather than to attend the inaugural and the only uniformed military troop available refused to escort Jackson and he finally went to the Capitol under the escort of an old guard of revolutionary veterans, hastily called into service. Jackson made an impression, however, on the crowd that gathered to hear him make his inaugural address on the Capitol portico, which was used for the first time for that purpose. At the close of his address he was the centre of a storm of admirers, and going into their midst he held an informal reception. The crowds tagged along, cheering wildly as he returned to the White House. At the White House the crowd became a mob and a wild through the mansion, causing great damage to the furnishings. Martin Van Buren's inauguration brought great crowds to Washington and the carnival spirit prevailed. Van Buren rode to the Capitol in a state coach made from the original timber of the figure Constitution, drawn by four horses elaborately bedecked with brass-mounted harness.

Harrison Rode White Charger

Preparations for a great parade were made for William Henry Harrison and the Whigs turned out in great strength. President Harrison refused to ride to the Capitol in state, however, but mounted his favorite saddle horse, a white charger, and centered down Pennsylvania avenue bareheaded and acknowledging the plaudits of the huge crowds that wanted to pay their respects to Old Tippecanoe.

James K. Polk rode at the head of a great parade in his inaugural procession, through a heavy rain and a sea of mud. Zachary Taylor was known as "Old Rough and Ready" and his inauguration seemed to fit that characterization, for it was the noisiest celebration that staid old Washington had ever witnessed. General Taylor laid away his favorite military costume, however, and rode in a carriage drawn by four gray horses to the Capitol at the head of an enthusiastic noise-reducing parade.

Slush filled the streets when Franklin Pierce fell into line with his predecessors and headed an inaugural parade.

James Buchanan's inauguration was the signal for a great social celebration. Buchanan was a bachelor.

Lincoln Carefully Guarded

Abraham Lincoln's inauguration was in the midst of an armed camp. Attempts on his life were predicted. Riflemen were on every roof along the line of march, a cavalry squad guarded Lincoln and troops were stationed at the Capitol ready to check a riot. Lincoln took the oath of office in a clutter of masonry, for the Capitol was then being remodelled and the famous dome under construction. President Lincoln failed to attend the inaugural ball, much to the disappointment of Washington society.

Grant's Pompous Parade

The height of pomp and ceremony was attained when U. S. Grant became President. Troops from every section of the country formed a great parade and the town took on the aspect of a carnival. A great inaugural ball followed in the evening and for days Washington and the nation celebrated. It was anything but a dry celebration, according to historians.

Grant appears to have set the standard, for from his inauguration on down, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft and Wilson have all participated in pompous processions as they took office.

There have been more simple inaugurations than this today, for Theodore Roosevelt was quietly sworn in at a private residence after the death of William McKinley. There have been far more elaborate inaugurations than this today. But President Harding seems to have reached a happy moterly in the carnival spirit, the inaugural today marks the progress to the nation—from George Washington's coach and four, Jefferson's saddle horse and Zachary Taylor's noted march, to the whirling drive in a modern motor to the Capitol and the door back to the White House.

For the first time official business appears to have taken precedent over celebration.

France's wine output for 1920 was about twenty per cent greater than that of 1919.

The Instrument Chosen By The Greatest Artists

The most cherished possession of the great singers and instrumentalists is their art, and their keenest desire is that under all circumstances they shall be heard at their best. It is in appreciation of this fact that the greatest artists of this generation have become Victor artists, and their unqualified endorsement of the Victrola is the most conclusive evidence of its artistic superiority.

The Quality of Dainty is a bargain

The many housewives who use Dainty Flour show good, sound business judgment. They can see beyond its purchase price to its economy in the long run. The same high quality that makes Dainty cost more per sack than ordinary flour makes it absolutely dependable. It produces uniformly fine results without needless, expensive failures. Furthermore, Dainty requires less shortening.

This year-millers are tempted to lower quality to reduce price. But we won't lower the quality of Dainty. You wouldn't want us to. It wouldn't be Dainty if we did. Besides, it would be false economy.

Dainty continues to be milled, as always, from only the white centers of nothing but the very finest soft winter wheat. It's like cream skimmed from rich, Jersey milk. You can count on the quality of Dainty today, tomorrow and a year from tomorrow.

About Town

"Thought without action" is declared to be worse than no thought at all in a recent address of Engineer B. B. Blanford, as sent out by R. L. Pilling, System Director of the Louisville and Nashville for Safety First, and addressed by Chairman C. W. Matthews of the local safety committee. Says Mr. Blanford:

"As we are just launching in the new year, we should renew our interest in the cause of safety. No greater cause was ever launched than the Safety Movement. Safety does not only protect life, limbs and property but pays the individual a big dividend. It should be the duty of every employee to make out safety cards and suggestions, calling our Local Safety Committee's attention to any and all unsafe conditions, so they may be made safe, guard against all unsafe practices, and by so doing we do not only make conditions safe for ourselves and our family, but at the same time make conditions safe for the other man and his family and our employees, so we all should renew our efforts along the line of Safety. Do not be afraid to call your Local Safety Committee's attention to any unsafe conditions for fear you will hurt some one's feelings. If he does not want his feelings hurt he should not have the unsafe conditions. Bet some serious accident to happen by the unsafe conditions. You will not hurt the right kind of man's feelings by calling their attention to unsafe conditions for they want their department safe. Bear in mind when we are making unsafe conditions safe we are putting money in our pocket as well as others, when we are helping other along in the safety line, we are helping ourselves and our families, so we all should endeavor to make this the by far best year of any for Safety."

"The Safety Movement should have the undivided attention and co-operation of every one. Co-operation is the most essential thing to any movement or enterprise."

One of the oldest employees of the shops in point of service, is John Johnson, Blacksmith, who retired with a pension the last day of February. Mr. Johnson served his trade in Stockholm, Sweden, in the chief locomotive and ship building plant of that city. He worked at his trade as blacksmith tool dresser for twenty years before coming to America. "I think America is all right," said Mr. Johnson, thought as a skilled workman I did very well in Sweden. I feel very grateful to the Louisville and Nashville company for its consideration. I certainly appreciate it. When one plays out such consideration goes a long way. I was not so weak, but my eye sight was becoming very defective. The last day I worked, I recall that a blur kept coming before my eyes."

Mr. Johnson leaves with the best wishes of all, and his presence and service will be greatly missed.

The special meeting of the organized labor crafts held at the Carmen's hall last night was well attended and much business "for the good of the order" was discussed. W. R. McCluskey, Vice President of the state federation of labor presided.

P. H. Hutchens, machinist, continues very ill at his home on 5th Ave. West Albany. As special consideration to Mr. Hutchens, Usena Lodge No. 622, appointed a committee to visit him and present him with many beautiful flowers.

T. A. Ramsey, of the Round House Tool Room, is at the Benevolent hospital, where he has undergone another serious operation.

Sam Nelson, of the machine shops, spent Sunday in Columbia, Tenn.

"Shop" for the Dealer As well as the Auto

If you could get a 10 per cent reduction of the price of the car you want by going a block farther down the street, you would be inclined to go to that much trouble.

Do you know that the actual intrinsic value of the service and responsibility that a good dealer can put into any car he sells is often worth more than 10 per cent of the car cost, in the first season?

It isn't the price of the car so much as it is the performance of the car, and that depends much on the man who sells it to you.
